

Women's History Month

IN THE CLASSROOM

Use these great resources from the National Constitution Center to teach Women's History Month in your classroom and recognize those who inspired future generations by advancing the cause of women's voting rights and helped to make America a more equitable place.

Featured Resource: Decoding the Lyrics: "Bad Romance: Women's Suffrage"

Watch Soomo Publishing's take on Lady Gaga's "Bad Romance" music video, redone to tell the story of the women's suffrage movement, then download our handy analysis worksheet and take a closer look at the video's lyrics.

Featured Lesson Plan: Women of Power

This lesson provides students with an overview of the contributions made by powerful women throughout history as they examine their impact on the country's cultural, social, political and economic development and explore different members of the National Women's Hall of Fame.

Featured Activity: Voting Rights Word Puzzle

Students can learn about the history of voting rights with this fun word puzzle.

Featured Game: Seize the Vote

In this engaging game, students can use their knowledge of voting rights to answer questions that allow a cast of characters the chance to take their place at the polls.

Featured Program: Traveling History and Civics Program: Women of Power

Bring the National Constitution Center into your classroom! Through an interactive "Guess Who"-style game (including costumes!), this show helps students explore the changing roles of women throughout American history with a special emphasis on the passage of the 19th Amendment. Book your group today! Call 215-409-6802 or email thcp@constitutioncenter.org.

See what's happening at the museum for Women's History Month!

Pin it to Win it-Colonial Spring Break Experience Giveaway

Despite the forecast, spring really is just around the corner! We're offering an incredible spring break experience to one lucky pinner and their family that includes a complimentary one-night stay at the Holiday Inn Express Midtown in Philadelphia, a private tour of the National Constitution Center, and more!

Follow us on Facebook and Pinterest for more details on how to enter!